

Full-service IT support for environments that cannot afford gaps

Executive protection firms are often asked about risks that extend beyond physical presence and personal safety. Clients want guidance on cyber exposure, reducing blind spots through camera coverage, unifying connected property systems, and the technology gaps that can create risk at home, at work, and on the move.

For more than 20 years, Decypher has supported high-expectation environments with cybersecurity, surveillance systems, safe-room connectivity, and related technology services. We work alongside protection teams when clients need help securing residences, estates, offices, and other sensitive environments.

Where Decypher adds value

Cybersecurity for high-risk clients

Protection for family offices, executives, and private clients who need stronger security across devices, accounts, networks, and connected environments.

Surveillance systems

Design, installation, maintenance and monitoring for camera systems across residences, estates, offices, and other sensitive properties.

Secure infrastructure

Reduce avoidable exposure and strengthen the environment behind the scenes.

Risk-informed support

A technical team that understands how physical security, digital risk, and operational vulnerability overlap.

Why it matters for EP firms

Many EP firms are being asked to weigh in on cyber risk or surveillance needs even when those services fall outside their core scope. Decypher gives protection teams a reliable technical counterpart when a client needs deeper support. That helps the client get a stronger overall solution while allowing the EP firm to stay focused on its core role.

Decypher is built for environments where trust, discretion, responsiveness, and follow-through matter. We understand that these engagements often involve sensitive people, properties, schedules, and risks. Our role is to provide best-in-class support for the protection team and their clientele.

Why Decypher

Ideal fit

Executive protection firms supporting:

- principals and executives
- family offices and UHNW clients
- luxury residences and estates
- multi-property environments
- clients with elevated privacy, security, or visibility concerns

Let's talk

If your team needs a trusted cyber and surveillance systems partner for client engagements, Decypher can help.

Decypher Technologies
Glenwood Springs Operations
Center 201 Centennial Street, Ste
112 Glenwood Springs, CO 81601
855.808.6920

